General Information

Lawrence Wishart have been publishing critical left texts since 1936. Our academic journals cover a diverse range of subject areas, including Cultural Studies, Educational Policy, Gender Studies, History, and Politics. Specialising in politically engaged scholarship, our competitively priced journals feature contributions from leading academics within their fields.

All subscriptions include archival access. For most of our journals this includes all published volumes, covering over 60 years of debate.

Our commitment is to provide a space for progressive and socially engaged content; new volumes address affairs of the moment, often through themed issues.

Up to date information on all our publications, including current issues, past contents, contributors, and editorials are available on our website: <https://journals.lwbooks.co.uk/>

New Formations has been a pioneer of interdisciplinary research in the humanities and social sciences since the 1980s.

The core intellectual remit of the journal is to publish original work which explores the uses of cultural theory for the analysis of political and social issues—be they historical or contemporary—and it publishes work from any discipline which meets this criterion, or which bears directly upon current debates within cultural theory, cultural studies, or the wider critical humanities or social sciences. It has a particularly strong reputation as a forum for the development and application of cultural theory.

The journal appeals to anyone who is interested in the connections between contemporary theory and politics, and draws on a wide range of disciplines.

FORUM

*for promoting 3-19
comprehensive education*

For over 60 years FORUM has been the pre-eminent focal point for topical and informed analysis—very often highly forthright and critical—of all aspects of United Kingdom government policy as it influences the education of children from Early Years through to higher education.

FORUM vigorously campaigns for the universal provision of state-provided education, and seeks to identify and expose all attempts to overturn the gains of the past years.

The journal is relevant for a wide readership including: educational academics in HE; university education students; NEU activists; educational practitioners.

ARTS

Soundings offers committed, informed and thoughtful writing on a wide range of contemporary political and cultural debates. It was founded twenty years ago by Stuart Hall, Doreen Massey, and Michael Rustin.

The journal's theoretical framework is broadly based on the traditions of the New Left and the Gramscian tradition, but it also draws on emerging ideas from contemporary movements and cultural politics, especially ideas about intersectionality.

ANARCHIST STUDIES

Anarchist Studies is an international peer-reviewed inter- and multi-disciplinary journal of anarchism research which has been publishing novel, refreshing and provocative arguments for over twenty years. Shaped by the scholarship of contributors rather than editorial commitments the journal publishes research into the history, culture, theory and practice of anarchism. 'Many academic journals are interchangeable' the late, great Colin Ward remarked, 'but Anarchist Studies is full of material you will discover nowhere else'.

Twentieth Century Communism

a journal of international history

HISTORY POLITICS
CULTURAL STUDIES
COMPARATIVE LITERATURE
ARTS

Twentieth Century Communism provides an international forum for the latest research on the subject and acts as an entry-point into key developments and debates not immediately accessible to English-language historians.

The journal's main focus is on the period of the Russian revolution (1917-91) and on the activities of communist parties themselves. However, its remit also extends to the movement's antecedents and rivals, the responses to communism of political competitors and state systems, and to the cultural as well as political influence of communism.
